

Traveling Skilled Tradespeople

Meeting demand with tradespeople who are ready to travel

Do you need qualified tradespeople for projects in remote locations or hard-to-staff markets? PeopleReady Skilled Trades (PRST) can help. Available anywhere in the United States, we can source skilled tradespeople who will travel to your projects for short or extended periods.

A partnership that plans ahead

Build up your workforce and staff a critical project to control peak demand with confidence. PRST works with you to create a strategy that prevents project interruptions. Then we send tradespeople with the right skills, experience and commitment to safety.

Committed to quality on every project

Our traveling tradespeople are highly specialized. They understand the nature of working away from home for extended periods and are focused on delivering quality work throughout the duration of your project.

Where traveling tradespeople make the difference

Travel-ready skilled tradespeople give you the flexibility to take on more work, expand into new markets and maintain progress when local labor is limited, timelines are tight or projects require specialized experience. They support the success of:

- Mission-critical facility development
- Industrial electrical projects
- Plant shutdowns and turnarounds
- Planned and unplanned outages
- Renewable energy projects
- Multi-site rollouts
- Disaster recovery and rebuilding
- Remote or hard-to-staff locations
- And other high-priority projects
